think[box]

Process Book
Jacob Wagner
Joel Simon
Devin Miller
Mitchell Kline
Obinaa Muoh
Malik Alatshan
1. Business Model

- What is think[box]?
- Who are our stakeholders?
- What are the intended outcomes of think[box]?
- What resources do we need to achieve those outcomes?

Value Proposition

Purpose

People

Form

Resources
2. People

What do they expect from Think Box?

How do we balance the interests of the different stakeholders?

Who are our stakeholders?

Experience
Project Based Env.
Funding
Learning
Collaboration
Degree
Networking
Exposure
Equity
Application
Entrepreneurial Opt.
Reputation

Faculty Administration
Students
Community
Non-Profits
3. Form

What are the issues that we need figure out?

Which model works best to serve our purpose?

How are projects selected?

How do we group individuals?

Metrics and criteria for evaluating possible projects.
Possible sources for relevant projects?

Who would evaluate these projects?

How do we evaluate the applicants for Think Box?

Ongoing guidance and evaluation
The Students Experience

think[box] Experience

Enrollment

Projects

Ongoing Guidance

Reviews

Reward

Evaluation

Exemplary Models

Farm

Laboratory

Consultancy

Apprenticeship

Dance Club

Internship

Survivor

Incubator

- Segmentation: How to segment students
- Accountability
- Nurturing capacity of hands
- Communication: Sustain
- Sensitivity to needs
- Assignments: How
- Sustainability: How
- Net
- Flow
- Iterative and dynamic
- Coherence: Cross-functional
- Relationship/Network
- Strategy/Method
- Motivation (Money & Peace)
- Out of context
- Efficiency, structure
What do we want to avoid?

After looking at other models: What features do we want to have?

What features do we want to avoid?
How will think[box] Evolve?
4. Solution

New Way of Learning

Resources

Resources for Success